Messe Düsseldorf relies on proven PROTaction hygiene concept

In Düsseldorf, all signs are pointing to a safe staging of boot 2022. In view of the world's largest water sports trade fair approaching in January - from 22 to 30 January 2022 - Messe Düsseldorf has adapted once again its hygiene measures, oriented to the on 24th November updated Covid Protection Ordinance of its home state of North Rhine-Westphalia. The most important innovation is the introduction of the regulation for access of the visitors to the boot halls. Only vaccinated or recovered people will be allowed to enter the boot halls during the fair. The status of all visitors will be checked at the entrances to the fairground. Children up to 15 years are not affected by the measures in the North Rhine-Westphalian regulation. The vaccinated or recovered regulation for visitors is implemented to boot, as it has a clear recreational character, especially for the many end consumers.

Trade fair participants from overseas are also allowed to enter Germany. Official information on the special regulations is available on the website of the Association of the German Trade Fair Industry AUMA <https://www.auma.de/en/exhibit/legal-matters/entry-requirements>.

Messe Düsseldorf CEO Wolfram Diener: "We are very well prepared and can consistently implement all the requirements thanks to our PROTaction concept on the fairground. The measures and, above all, the access controls will contribute significantly to security. We offer exhibitors and visitors a perfect platform that provides space for information exchange, networking and experience even in Covid times. For manufacturers, retailers and destinations, participation in boot 2022 will be the marketplace for contacts and presentations as well as the season opener for their industry."

boot 2022 is very well positioned: All the well-known manufacturers of luxury yachts, motor and sailing yachts are on board. Despite the crisis of the last year and a half, the diving sector has almost completely returned to boot and the global surf sports players are also back "on tour". boot fans will be
